To be the last player standing, you must complete your journey around the globe before time expires. The game starts with a round of ten rounds where one person each turns down the offer of a gold coin on the island of Jory. Then, the player with the most points takes control of what island their opponent already controls and attempts to conquer it with the help of dragons, magic, and other assorted elements of the story of "The Winds of Winter" or "The Kingsroad" and gain control of the kingdom along the way. If a player is victorious in the end, that player will advance to the next round, and each player moves one map point from their base to their side of the board. Each base map point that was previously in another player's territory is transferred to that player's base, and the remaining points are put to each player's benefit.
